Agenda:
- Review outcomes for Nov. 5 “Awareness Doesn’t End” event
- Plan for next semester

Outcomes from Nov. 5 “Awareness Doesn’t End” event
- 50 people attended: 3 staff, 11 faculty, 36 students
- 22 total written responses provided on “I say No More” poster
- 2 speakers: Mandi deSouza from Domestic Violence Action Coalition and Brooke Conway from Sex Abuse Treatment Center
- Kimberly Gallant, HonCC Wellness Center counselor, on hand to answer questions and provide resources
- 1 hour forum with intention of providing information on community services, where to go on campus for help, and to provide a short question/answer time.
- Support provided by Faculty Development Committee and the Office of the Chancellor

Planning for next semester:
- Begin to plan for larger event for Spring
- Work with Administration and the Dean of Student Services as well as continue to work

Decisions Made:
- Goal is to hold this event on Friday, March 13, 2015 on the Mall and Lawn fronting the Children’s Center

Actions Needed:
- Committee members felt that due to the interest shown by the number of students who attended and their feedback during the event, the committee should look into providing some type of follow-up event during the Spring semester.
- Nina will contact Dean of Student Services, Dee Uwono, and ask if she would be interested in partnering with COSE and attending planning with Kimberly Gallant on planning

- Ideas:
  1. Provide an evening movie event to show the documentary “Tough Guise” as well
  2. Invite slam-poets come to perform around the idea that “Awareness Doesn’t End” in regards to domestic/sexual violence
  3. Invite artists to come and ‘create’ their paintings/sculptures etc. while the event is on-going to provide a visual unfolding of art around the central idea of awareness
  4. Invite food trucks to take part in the event
  5. Invite local advocates of non-violence to speak between poets/movie

Next Meeting:

- Meet to preview “Tough Guise” documentary
- Invite Dean of Students, Kimberly Gallant and Chancellor Lacro to attend
