The US has two archives: The Library of Congress, which has copies of all of the books published in the US. The National Archives, which has the original Declaration of Independence.

wikipedia.org defines "An archive [as] an accumulation of historical records, or the physical place they are located. Archives contain primary source documents that have accumulated over the course of an individual or organization's lifetime, and are kept to show the function of that person or organization.

Loretta Mountford and Harold Limbaugh, members of the 9/11 memorial committee, place a copper plate on the front of the memorial. The plaque is inscribed with the names of those who died in the attacks.

The memorial is a tribute to those who lost their lives on September 11, 2001.

"It was a very somber moment," said Mountford. "It was a moment of reflection and a reminder of the sacrifices made.

Neal Snyder and his daughter, Mary, place a photo of their daughter, Christine, on the memorial. They were among the first to visit the site.

"We wanted to honor her memory," said Snyder. "This is a place of healing for us.

The memorial was dedicated in honor of Christine Snyder, a Holocaust survivor who died in the attacks.

"This memorial is a reminder of the sacrifices made and the lives lost," said Snyder. "It is a place of remembrance and healing.
